

May 2, 2007

Jump for Heart Park Terrace students raise $5,000 for the American Heart Association

In April, Park Terrace Elementary classes participated in "Jump Rope for Heart" activities during their Phy. Ed classes. Students were encouraged to gather donations for the American Heart Association.

If the goal of $5000 was reached, staff bravely promised to participate in an assortment of funny and daring activities during a school assembly at the end of April.

The goal was reached, $5000 was raised, and the fun began!

Above: Top student money-raiser Skylynn Turner, grade 2, turned teacher (and emcee extraordinaire) Dean Downs and principal Claudia Hagberg into "human ice cream sundaes."

Left: Delaney Herman, grade 2, and teacher Anne Kurisch with the old pie-in-the-face trick.

Above: Teacher Miranda Boys was a little unnerved by the very, very real boa constrictor placed on her arm.

Left: Ashley Mason, grade 3, placed two awfully big earthworms into the mouth of teacher Sue Witt. (The worms were unharmed, Witt is still recovering from the experience.)

